MISSION

For Your Reading Enjoyment

Here is a suggested reading list to get you started off in the new year; it includes a diverse group of animal-themed favorites.

- Squirrel Seeks Chipmunk: A Modest Bestiary, by David Sedaris:

“What we have here is a unique and absurd collection of what appear (on the surface) to be anthropomorphic animal characters- squirrels, storks, cats, toads, turtles, and of course a duck...” Amazon.com review.
- Rose In A Storm, by Jon Katz:

I've never found a bad read from Katz. They are always a pleasure and send you on a roller-coaster of human emotions as you work your way through a tale of truth or fiction, meant to teach us of the power of animals, and the influence they can have on us.” Your editor
- Man In The Woods, by Scott Spencer:

A man, a dog, a rest area, a thriller: not for the faint of heart.

“Our doctors and staff are friendly and genuinely concerned about your pet's welfare. We take pride in the professional capabilities of each member of our staff. They are carefully chosen not only for their abilities, but also for their love and desire to help both pets and people.

Like human medicine, veterinary medicine is becoming increasingly complex and sophisticated. New technologies and new knowledge are a fact of life. We make every attempt to continuously upgrade both our facilities and our skills. Our staff members regularly attend continuing education seminars to ensure their highest level of competency. We appreciate your understanding when the doctor you may wish to see is not there at that time - please be assured that these seminars are for the benefit of your pet.” Northwest Pet Clinic

...and introducing Positive Paws Canine Behavioral Health Center:
 We are very proud and excited to announce that Northwest Pet Clinic is expanding its services to include training and behavior management. We have hired Carey Haas, CPDT-KA, Certified Pet Dog Trainer, to help us build and implement our behavior programs. She has been in the field of behavior and training for 15 years, and brings with her a wide range of fun and modern techniques for training and behavior problem solving. Through the Positive Paws Center we will offer a variety of classes and private sessions to meet the behavior needs of your pet and your family.

For example, the Pup Start™ program is designed to get your puppy ready for the real world. We teach basic commands as tools, and help puppies learn to use their "tools" not only in the classroom but also on walks, when guests come over, and other challenging situations. Carey will also be doing individual sessions to help resolve problem behaviors. The goal for individual sessions is to help dogs develop methods to feel calm in everyday situations that have previously been stressful, which results in a reduction of inappropriate behaviors. Once the dogs have progressed through their classes or their individual sessions, they will have several choices of fun activities to participate in, such as hospital visits/therapy and dog sports. These activities can be great fun for the whole family. We will also have a Doggy Day School, where you can drop your dog off for the day for some fun socializing, and to practice his/her lessons.

The Positive Paws Canine Behavioral Health Center will be up and running in the beginning of 2011. However, Carey is taking appointments for individual sessions starting December 1, 2010. Please feel free to call the clinic for more information: 520-742-4148.

We are also proud to announce that we have made an addition to our services, in order to provide improved patient care. We now have a Patient Transport Service. We can pick your pet up at your home for routine care, saving you the hassle of battling traffic—we will pick your pet up in the morning, take care of his/her needs here at the clinic, and arrange for drop off at home in the evening. We can also help you in an urgent situation, if you are not able to transport your pet yourself. Charges apply, and vary depending on the distance we need to travel from the clinic. *We are not able to transport pet owners.
